MEDIMAT JADE

MASSAGEDEVICE

MASSAGE EFFECT

We are all familiar with the soothing relaxation of tense muscles by a massage. There are obvious explanations for these processes inside the muscles, blood vessels and nerve fibres.

In the body, there are two circulatory systems. The bloodstream, starting from the heart, supplies the brain, organs and muscular system with nutrients, whilst the lymphatic system ensures that metabolic products, dross and toxins can be washed out of the body.

If the immune system is attacked by infections and viruses, the first thing the doctor does is palpating the lymph nodes, as these produce defence cells and react to this strain by swelling.

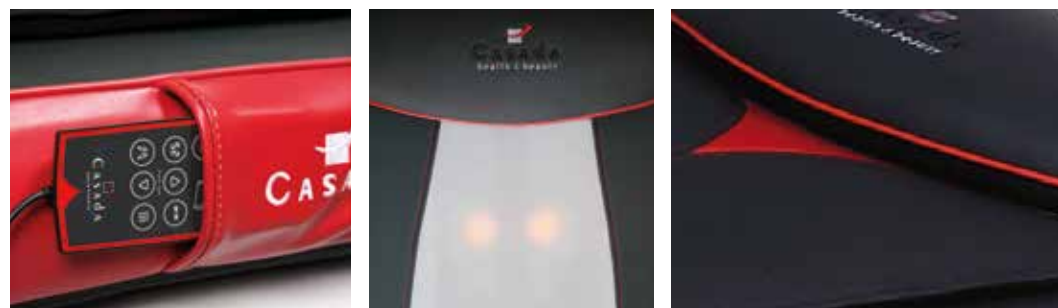

Every massage stimulates this system, causes the body fluids to move, and thereby promotes the evacuation of harmful substances and the supply of oxygen and nutrients.

COMBINATION OF TRADITION & MODERNITY

With rolling and kneading movements, the professional masseur releases the tension, stiffness and deep-seated cramp in the back muscles. Here, the form of these movements is simulated perfectly by smoothing massage heads that rotate or roll. The low frequency vibrations of the powerful vibration motors reach even deeper. The motors are controlled by varying frequencies and therefore generate exceptionally long-wave vibrations. These stimulate the circulation and the lymphatic system. Persistent tensions are resolved and prevented from reforming. A lasting improvement is made to the flexibility of the spine, noticeable successes appear even after the first use, and a healthy and relaxed condition results. In the Medimat Jade the massage heads normally made from plastic are substituted with heads of genuine jade. The natural powers of jade are increased by an integrated heating system. The Massage will be intensified by sending healing warmth into the depths of the muscles. The heat is permeating through the stone slowly and is noticeable after a few minutes. During this heating phase the tissue is already being relaxed by the rotating movement of the massage heads and surface hardening and tension are being released.

IMPROVE THE QUALITY OF LIFE, ONGOING

Many medical studies now demonstrate the huge potential of this therapy. Even after a relatively short duration of use, the body gains in tone and agility. Persistent tensions are completely resolved and prevented from reforming.

A lasting improvement is made to the flexibility of the spine, noticeable successes appear even after the first use, and a healthy and relaxed condition results. Even after a short time, regular use produces a significant boost to well-being and aches are immediately soothed.

Regular use of the Medimat Jade will actively prevent many everyday complaints. The demonstrably improved circulatory activity, particularly of the lymphatic system, keeps the tissue tight and the working distribution of body fluids ensures the supply of all the essential nutrients to the muscular system, bones and skin.

Treat your body to the recovery phases that are so important in a perfect form. Enjoy the pleasant feeling of doing something good for your body and your mind.
